

I am very concerned about migrating birds hitting communication towers and dieing from the impact.. I believe research should be immediately undertaken as to light or sound signals allowing birds to avoid the towers. Birds are important to a healthy environment as they destroy insects etc. I most strongly urge the FCC to investigate possible methods of avoiding birds hitting communication towers.